

CLIC ChatGPT competition:
What's the best ChatGPT prompt for language learning?

Terms and Rules

1. Conditions of entry

1.1. The competition is open to all students registered on a CLIC foreign language course, as well as all students and staff in CUED.

1.2. Each candidate can submit up to 3 separate entries. The prompt can be in any of the foreign languages taught in CLIC (Chinese, French, German, Japanese and Spanish), and/or in English.

1.3. Each entry must be sent from the candidate's Cambridge University email address and include:

- A screen shot of the prompt used and the answer ChatGPT generated (the answer can be truncated if it expands beyond a single screen shot);
- A short commentary (60 words maximum) of why they think this is a useful prompt for language learning.

1.4. Entries must be submitted to the following email address: clic-enquiries@eng.cam.ac.uk with the subject line "CLIC ChatGPT competition". The deadline is 17th February 2023 4pm (UK time).

1.5. Entries will be judged by a jury composed of CLIC staff members.

2 . Judging criteria

2.1. Entries will be judged based on their creativity and their relevance to language learning. If the same prompt is submitted by several candidates, only the earliest submission will be considered.

3 . Uses of the prompts and/or screen shots

3.1. The candidate expressly accepts that their prompt and /or screen shots may be used and distributed, for non-commercial purposes, by any existing or future means in any form and/or on any media known or unknown to date.

3.2. CLIC will use all reasonable means to make sure that the name of the author will appear. Nevertheless, the candidate acknowledges that the mention of their name and the reproductions of their prompt or screen shot, in particular on the internet, may be altered or partial.

4 . Miscellaneous

4.1. CLIC may modify, extend, shorten, suspend or cancel the competition without being held liable, no compensation can be requested by the candidates. The candidate will not receive any notification regarding the modification of the content of these rules and will take cognizance of them regularly.

4.2. The mere fact of participating in the competition entails the outright acceptance of these rules.